PRESIDENT'S LETTER

I often ask myself is there is ever a time of year that we, as academics and scholars are not busy? I love my work, especially my service work related to comparative and international education, but I feel as though I rarely have time for my writing. Thank goodness for conferences and other writing deadlines to motivate us to write up the results of our studies and present them to our peers.

The spring is conference season for researchers in comparative and international education. We always have our own annual conference through CSSE (the Congress) to look forward to in May or June. (See page 2 in this newsletter for further details.) CIES, the US comparative society, often hosts its annual conference in March. (I'm currently racing to get my own paper completed for that conference.) And then this year, we also have the XV World Comparative Education Congress that will take place in Buenos Aires in June 2013. See www.wcces2013.com.ar for further details.

There are increasing numbers of other smaller conferences that deal with international education issues attesting to the growing interest in this area. Within Canada, I have heard about the Canada International Conference on Education to be held from June 24-26, 2013 at the University of Toronto www.ciceducation.org

There is a Peace and Justice

Studies Association (Wilfrid Laurier University) conference "Peace Studies between Tradition and Innovation" to be held in October, 2013 in Waterloo, Ontario. The deadline for proposal submissions is April 15th and you can find further details about this conference at www.peacejusticestudies.org

There are many other conferences abroad that deal with various issues related to comparative and international education. Every year, the Bulgarian Comparative Education Society hosts an international education conference. This year, the theme is Education in One World: Perspectives from Different Nations. That conference takes place in May in Plovdiv, Bulgaria. Further details are available at <http://bc.es.conference.tripod.com>

And finally, I was recently sent a message about the International Association for Intercultural Education's conference in Zagreb, Croatia September 17-21, 2013. The theme for that conference is Unity and Disunity, Connections and Separations: Intercultural education as a movement for promoting multiple identities, social inclusion and transformation. Details for that conference are at <http://zagreb.iaie.org/>

There are many other conferences, symposia and other opportunities for us to showcase our work that I haven't mentioned here. I look forward to seeing you at some of these and hearing about the research you are involved in that keeps our field rich and vibrant.

CIESC MEMBER PUBLICATION

CIESC Members Yvonne Hébert and Ali Abdi have just released their edited book Critical Perspectives on International Education through Sense Publishers.

In rapidly globalizing spaces of life, any research project on international education would necessarily have multi-directional emphases, with the quality of observations and analyses reflecting the expanding political, economic and cultural intersections which characterize this potentially promising century. To respond to these emerging learning and living contexts of our world, this book brings together some of the most active and established scholars in the field. As such, the book represents important epistemic interventions that analyze and critique the institutional, socio-economic, linguistic and pedagogical platforms of international education. As the locus of international education cannot be detached from the pragmatics of social development, the specific recommendations embedded in this book expand the debates and broaden the boundaries of learning projects that should enhance the lives of people, especially those who are continually marginalized by the regimes of globalization. Thus, the book actively advocates for possibilities of human well-beings via different formats of education in diverse locations of life.

TED TALK BY CIESC MEMBER!

Steve Sider, CIESC Member and our Secretary/Treasurer did a TED talk recently on RE-IMAGINING EDUCATION IN HAITI

The talk was based on his involvement with the Digital Mentoring Project involving school principals in Haiti and Canada. Way to go, Steve!

UPCOMING CIESC CONFERENCE: VICTORIA, 2013

Planning is well under way for our annual conference in Victoria this year. We received over 70 proposals for participation in the conference. Final decisions have been made and the letters have been sent. Many thanks to those who reviewed proposals! We will have a full program of diverse and dynamic presentations. I visited Victoria in late January and preparations for the CSSE conference and Congress, overall, are well in hand. Accommodations are filling up fast so if you haven't booked, I would recommend you do so in the very near future. For those of you not familiar with Victoria, the University is a bit of a distance from the downtown core. However, the conference organizers are talking to BC transportation about ensuring that adequate transportation (shuttle buses, extra city buses, etc.) is available. I will be staying downtown myself and I am not concerned about getting back and forth to the campus everyday. Registration is now open!

We have a great program planned and I'm sure it will be an exciting, productive and informative conference. I look forward to seeing you all there!

MEMORIAL TO JOE FARRELL

Professor Joe Farrell passed away on Saturday, December 8, 2012 as a result of a sudden case of septicemia. Over the course of his career, Joe made tremendous contributions to the field of comparative and international education. Joe was the founder of the Comparative, International, and Development Education Centre (CIDEC) at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE). He was a world renowned professor for more than four decades, and a great mentor of innumerable students, instructors, and fellow inquirers around the world. His award winning research on alternative schools in the developing world, educational planning, and equity in education has informed educational practice and scholarship worldwide.

Joe's life and work was multidimensional: he was not just a world class scholar and leader of comparative and international education, and a mentor for colleagues and students; Joe was also a Scout leader, a folk guitarist, and a loving father and grandfather who used to talk about his grandchildren often and passionately.
